The Parenting Center Presents

Divided in a Diverse Community:

Why Intentional Integration Matters

2017 MACARTHUR 'GENIUS AWARD' RECIPIENT

Nikole Hannah-Jones

Nikole Hannah-Jones is the author of a highly influential, National Magazine Award winning, NY TIMES article documenting school segregation. She is the recipient of a Peabody and a George Polk Award for earlier work on the topic, and a founder of the Ida B. Wells Society for Investigative Reporting.

In this evening presentation, Ms. Hannah-Jones will discuss:

- ♦ Why intentional integration matters.
- ♦ Which school desegregation plans have worked, and which have failed, across the country, and why.
